WORD FROM THE CEO | A Time to Reflect and Looking Back Broadly to 2022 ...

It is the end of the year, and just the other day we were happily wishing each other a Happy New Year. Well, let me start by saying that it has been a great year for all of us at the Optiven Group and now this is the time for Thanksgiving. We are especially delighted to have served customers across the different projects in our portfolio in real estate and to have touched numerous lives across the country through the Optiven Foundation. In that time, I am also humbled to have received a number of accolades as an individual, courtesy of the Optiven family and a few that have gone to Optiven Real Estate and Optiven Group Foundation. All this would not have been possible were it not for the great support that we have received from the Board of Directors, Board of Management, staff, customers, partners and other stakeholders that have held our hands as we socially and economically empower and transform the society.

It is also in this year that we have seen a shift in the portfolio of Optiven Real Estate projects where we have expanded the bracket to bring our customers extremely affordable projects as per their request. I am happy to advise that these projects have received great uptake including the incredible sell-out of Malindi Breeze phase 1 and 2 – all of which sold out just days after being launched. We are also happy to close the sales of older projects such as Victory Gardens in Kitengela and Success Gardens on Gatanga Road as well as the premier project of Amani Ridge, The Place of Peace in Kiambu. Our investors took up these projects with ease, some currently completing their instalment payments for the same while others are either building or currently living on the projects as is the case with Amani Ridge The Place of Peace in Kiambu and Victory Gardens in Kitengela. To our investors and partners, we say a big thank you.

Our real estate arm was also exuberant in matters to do with issuance of title deeds where different teams were at hand to walk the investment journey with our customers upto the time of handing over the golden document of ownership which is the title deed. Yes, it is this year that hundreds of title deeds were disbursed to over 15 countries in the diaspora including the Americas, Europe, Asia, and the United Kingdom – not forgetting a number of African Countries. Am happy to note that with the engagement of the diaspora, Optiven will upscale it's service to this market by offering great service from the Optiven Global office that was officially opened on 10th November 2022. As CEO am grateful for the many accolades that have been bequeathed to me. Of course the awards are a result of the different roles and contributions made by the associates across the Optiven Group – meaning I recognize the role our staff play in making the team a great success.

We look forward to an extraordinary year in 2023 where we are ready to offer you solutions towards realising your investment goals in real estate. As the Chief Executive, I am confident that we shall rise to higher levels, and achieve more than we have in the past for the good of the company, it's staff and all stakeholders. We are keen to walk this journey with you as Optiven, because the core of what we do is all about settling people in their homes, and at their pace.

May I take this opportunity, on behalf of the Optiven Group, to wish you a blessed festive season and look forward to a prosperous 2023, full of God's blessings.

FOUNDATION HOSTS IVOVOANI WOMEN | Joyous Celebration & Christmas Gifts Shared...

Trotting in awe through the foyer of Absa Towers in Nairobi, Mama Nduku led nine of her peers to the Optiven offices located on the 2nd floor. This was the first time that she was visiting the offices of the Optiven Foundation since she became a beneficiary of the Poverty Eradication pillar as well as the Education pillar. Her journey and that of nine others, was a dream come true as for the very first time, they were able to pay a visit to the city in the sun. With awe struck faces and wide smiles, the women shared their journey from Ivovoani where they have known as their world for their lifetime. Florence a shy plump mother of three boys and two girls giggles as she shares the wonder of getting into a lift and the fear imbuing itself in her insides as she rides up and down the Optiven offices. She like the others rose up in the embers of the early morning fire flies of Ivovoani to come to the famous Nairobi City. Florence and her friend Phyllis had always wondered what it would look like and feel like to be in Nairobi. The tales of the great city had been their environment from the time they were little girls. But what made the two want to come to the city is the night time view of the Garden of Joy project in their neighbourhood. Each of them live on the terrain that enables them to see clearly what is happening at the Optiven project located in Koma. In fact for Phyllis this is her office as she and her son are regular visitors to the project where they offer services and products to the first rising community at the Garden of Joy. Her son is a much sought after mason in the project based on his stamina in moving construction materials and his expertise in laying foundations. This is a confirmation that the project is now home to a number of investors keen to bring to reality their dreams of home ownership. The Garden of Joy has seen an influx of investors now constructing their homes or working in collaboration with the Optiven Construction team to build their dream homes. The ten women that visited to Optiven offices and the Nairobi city are part of this success story.

But Optiven is not just about the land they sell. In this case Mama Nduku is one of the beneficiaries of what the Optiven Foundation does. She was recommended to the foundation owing to the deplorable state she was living in. Infact her story mimicked what resilience in life is all about and the decision to survive despite the odds against her. Optiven Foundation after confirming the situation stepped in and built her a three bedroom house, furnished it and even capped the blessing with a water tank to make life bearable for Mama Nduku. And as she led her friends to Nairobi, they all walked the streets holding hands, looking up at the skyscrapers, taking in the breathe of the city and enjoying every moment to see the monuments that make the city of Nairobi so great.

At the end of the day, with tired but jolly feet and faces, they made their way back to the Optiven offices where they had a moment with the Director for Strategy and Operations, Mary Wachuka and the Chief Executive Officer, Mr. George Wachiuri. To cap it all it was an early Christmas as each of the ten ladies were given a hamper of goodies courtesy of the Optiven Foundation. They each took turns to give their heartfelt appreciation for the lifetime opportunity and for the transformation that Optiven had made from the time it invested in the Garden of Joy in Koma. As they boarded their vehicle in the gleamer of the evening stars, the ten women wore gladness on their faces and gratefulness in their hearts having met a milestone of being in the city.

FOUNDATION HOSTS LUNCH FOR KIOTA HOME | Early Christmas, Joy & Celebration...

The smiles of the children lit up the entire community at Kiota Children's Home in Ruai and it was just the 2nd of December! This is after the Optiven Foundation team together with Regional Manager for Diaspora, James Mugo, Head of Legal Ethel Kipoto and the legal team joined hands to spend quality time with the children at the home. It was all joy especially after the guests from Optiven decided to further collaborate with representatives of Kabuda FC to get the fire cracking and cooking a sumptuous meal for the little ones.

The children could not help but celebrate the goodies and yummys that were also brought ahead of the Christmas celebrations, just for them to enjoy. The Optiven Foundation has previously visited the home and donated foodstuff, mattresses, sanitary items and psycho social support. Indeed it was an early Christmas and what a joy to celebrate the season by giving.

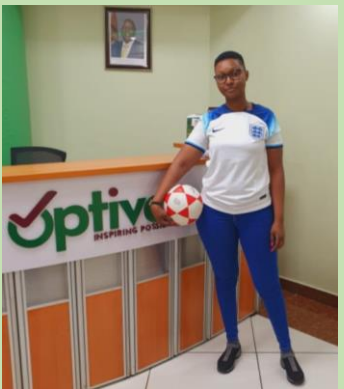

And true to the spirit of Christmas, the Legal Department at Optiven Real Estate this time led the way by not only donating the foodstuff, sanitary items and snacks for the Kiota community. The team further took time to interact with the children and share the joy of Christmas in a one of a kind way.

Speaking at the home, Vincent Kinara who represented the Optiven Foundation team lauded the Legal Department for the caring gesture. Kinara noted that the Foundation is dependent on such partnerships in order to be of value to the society by being the eyes of the community and inspiring possibilities across the board. To partner with the Optiven Foundation, visit us at Optiven Kenya office on 2nd floor, Absa Towers. Together inspiring possibilities in society.

THE FOUNDATION STAKE ON DISABILITY | Optiven Recognizes World Disability Day...

The goal of December 3rd's International Day of Persons with Disabilities is to raise awareness of the place of persons living with disabilities. This is in all elements of political, social, economic, and cultural life and to advance their rights and well-being at all levels of society and development. In an effort to improve the social and economic well-being of thousands of Kenyans through inclusion and diversity, Optiven has made a deliberate commitment of integrating persons with disability into its corporate development plans first as a culture, and second as a step towards achieving the strategic vision and corporate goals. Associate Director for Human Resources and Talent Management, Winnie Wambui says, "our policy on people living with disabilities highlights non – discriminatory practices, anti-harassment, providing a conducive environment to ensure effective participatory, equity and respect for persons with disabilities."

ABOVE: Mr. George Wachiuri, Optiven Group CEO (in blue tie), hands over wheelchairs to persons living with disability under the #MobilityThatBringsSmiles at Inooro TV, on behalf of the Foundation.

The practice according to Wambui is that the same has been extended to the company's soft-arm which is the Optiven Foundation, where so far, the foundation has been involved in numerous philanthropic initiatives in a quest to transform the social wellbeing of thousands of Kenyans through donations of wheelchairs and philanthropy. As one of the pillars under the Optiven Foundation is health, the Associate Director in charge of the Optiven Foundation, John Kyallo says of #MobilityThatBringsSmiles. The initiative distributes wheelchairs to people living with disabilities at the county level as part of its mandate as eyes on the community and to help in their mobility. Since 2019, the Foundation has been at the forefront in advocacy for persons with disabilities. Ann Nyaga, the Optiven Group Foundation Coordinator says, "so far the Optiven Foundation through the #MobilityThatBringsSmiles Campaign, has donated over 170 brand new wheelchairs to persons living with disabilities – a fete that has won the department a well deserved award. Of course, we do not do this alone as the initiative continues to receive massive requests from the ever increasing requests for wheelchairs. To this end we welcome the public to come join hands with us as we put smiles on our brothers and sisters who are living with disability."

This year, the theme for the World Disability Day is EQUALITY. According to the United Nations, there is a rallying call that globally calls for action on health. "We will not effectively address global health priorities or achieve sustainable development goal number 3 unless health equity for persons with disabilities at the center of our efforts." In the pillar devoted to reducing poverty, Josephine Leshao, a mother of three who is partially blind, as well as battling cancer and living with HIV, the Optiven Foundation donated a piece of land worth 1.5 million shillings at the Garden of Joy. This was under a special philanthropic campaign dubbed "Badilisha life na Optiven" aimed at transforming the lives of the destitute in society and alleviating poverty in Kenyan communities – so as to enhance social and economic transformation.

According to the United Nations, an estimated 1.3 billion people which is equivalent to 16% of the global population worldwide; experience significant disability today. The intent is therefore to ensure that Optiven as a stakeholder and adherent to the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals, provides an environment where there is equality of opportunities for all and where persons with disability can enjoy a quality work experience. Why? Because the people living with disability are part of our society, and they contribute to the well being of humanity as a whole.

Already the project has seen a growing number of investors building their dream homes owing to the transformation of the project. At the Garden of Joy, it is clear that the project is the choice home for many owing to the vast installation of solar street lights, a beautiful gate, a perimeter fence, water and electricity on site, and of course fully grown trees that mark the individually beaconed plots across the project. The title deed event is one among over 12 others held by Optiven across the country to enable customers who have invested in different projects to take full ownership of their properties. Optiven, has spread its wings further by ensuring that even investors in the diaspora continue to empower customers first to own land and secondly to seal the engagement by ensuring they get a title deed for their investment with Optiven. Wachiuri says this is a part of the company's culture to keep its promise to those that have trusted the Optiven brand to invest in land and receive the title deed as proof of ownership. The initiative to bestow title deeds to customers who have completed their payments continued beyond the borders with different investors of different projects receiving their document of ownership in countries such as Finland, America, Japan and the United Kingdom.
